

WHY WE'RE HERE

We started Bright Night to celebrate our friend Emily.

Emily Bright was first diagnosed with ovarian cancer when she was 23. Undeterred by the diagnosis, Emily continued joking, laughing, running, working, and fighting the disease that would take her life at 32. Throughout her own treatment, remission, and more treatment, Emily recognized the need for more innovative research and caring treatment structures for women battling ovarian cancer.

To honor Emily and her desire for better care for ovarian cancer patients, Bright Night gathers friends, family, and the Greenville community to run through the Lynndale neighborhood where Emily grew up. What better way to raise money and remember our friend than with an evening filled with a fun walk or run, Moe's burritos, live music, and good friends?

With your support, we have been able to contribute over $20,000 to national research projects, increase local awareness of ovarian cancer, and support patients and families going through treatment. In 2011, we even started a research endowment in Emily's name at the renowned Lineberger Comprehensive Cancer Center in Chapel Hill, NC.

Thank you for being a part of Bright Night and helping us remember our friend.
